VERY BAD WRECK.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Pa., June 15.—Roffery's Cut, twelve miles west of here on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was today the scene of one of the worst wrecks in recent years when the rails spread as a heavy train passed. Two engines and fifteen hoppers loaded with coal piled up in the cut in such manner as to bring from operating officials the statement that several days might elapse before the road is cleared. Through trains are being detoured over the Pennsylvania from Wheeling. No one was hurt.

SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK
BY O. O. MCINTYRE
Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-125 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Percy Ames is back from the war zone and is the center of a group of cronies down in Washington Square. He is a good story teller and is forced to regale them with stories from the other side. He tells of a mustering officer—a sergeant—who met on the street of an English coast village a strapping, upstanding youngster of 21 years.

The officer hailed him. "Se're, me lad," he said, "are you in good health?"

"I are," stated the youth. "Are you married?"

"Aren't."

"Are you anyone dependent on you?"

"I have not."

"Then your king and country need you. Why don't you enlist?"

"What?" he said. "With this blooming war going on? You must think I am a silly fool."

There is a bridge queen who teaches devotees of the game at so much per hour. James Murray, of the New York American, has an author friend who got into a game with the expert the other evening.

Murray asked him afterward how he came out. "Oh, I did all right," he said. "She never criticized my playing at all during the entire sets. But once when I spilled the cards on the floor just before dealing she said 'The idiot can't even shuffle the cards.'"

Just a few of the old time cabbies are left. They hang out in Herald Square and patronize the famous old lunch wagon there just as they did twenty-five years ago. The automobiles took their work away and not one of them would learn to be a chauffeur. In fact, the records show that not an old time cabbie is now driving a taxi.

It was not because they could not learn to drive a machine that they did not, but it was because they did not want to. It is their belief that any simpleton can drive a machine, but that you have to know nature to know how to make a horse love you.

So it was that many of them were too proud and as a result they are now drifting about from odd job to odd job and many of them have gone to the infirmary.

Little John McGraw could have Manhattan Island just now for less than what the old Indian is reputed to have taken for it. He is the most popular man in town and a few weeks ago they were ready to hang him. But such is baseball.

We saw him the other day in a hotel lobby. The cigar counter and the telephone girls left their work to look and admire a fleet of bell-boys, porters and doormen stood around in open mouthed wonder. But McGraw knows how changeable the public is and he is so used to basking in the spotlight that there are very few thrills in it for him.

With him was Christy Mathewson. They sat in two lounge chairs for twenty-five minutes and scarcely a word passed between them. No doubt they are thinking of fall weather when they can pack up their guns and go shooting. Mathewson goes to Missouri again this fall to shoot clay pigeons against Dr. F. M. Plank's team which defeated him so badly last year and McGraw is going to go along and watch.

Irene Castle's visit to her husband at his training camp in England seems to end all rumors that they were to be divorced. She was dining at the Beaux Arts the other evening surrounded by admiring acquaintances and friends. She spoke affectionately of Vernon and said that he looked "too cute for anything."
